

JOINED THE CHURCH

Achshah Millard Will Lead a Better Life.

IS PERSECUTED BY STOSE

Because She Would Not Make False Affidavit.

The state penitentiary is not considered a very congenial place in which to reform and seek religion, but it is just as good a place as the Lord would have. Achshah Millard thought so, and before she left the Lansing penitentiary recently she was converted, joined the church and was baptized.

Notwithstanding this, will Stose be endeavoring to have the girl apprehended and again sent to the penitentiary.

Mrs. D. H. Martin, assistant warden of the penitentiary, has written a letter to the authorities here, stating the above facts, and it is understood the letter contains very severe and malicious work of one Will Stose, who has made affidavit implicating Achshah Millard in another theft in this city, simply because she refused to swear to such falsehoods as would tend to secure for him a pardon. Mrs. Martin says she observed the character and conduct of the girl and says she is certain Achshah has reformed and will try to live a better life. She says Stose's affidavit is simply the result of his chagrin in not being able to induce Achshah to swear to a lie and that he is trying to persecute the girl because she, after being brought into disgrace by him, decided to cut the acquaintance.

The affidavit of young Stose was received here yesterday and it was learned from one who had seen it that the affidavit was sworn to on the 18th of January, just after Achshah Millard had left prison. The affidavit rehearsed the story of his relationship with Achshah and their subsequent burglary. Stose says that Achshah proposed to steal a lot of cigars, stating that she could get a key to the building and that on the night of December 23 he and Achshah went to a building on Main street, between First and Douglas, and stole 500 cigars, Achshah taking the lead, and that the cigars were disposed of by him and Ed. Northrup. Stose says he did not tell this before because he desired to shield the girl.

The affidavit will be turned over to prosecuting Attorney Amidon today and he will either act upon it and have Achshah Millard brought here for another trial or treat the matter as a dirty episode of young Stose to be forgotten. The crime for which Will Stose and Achshah Millard were sent to the penitentiary was burglary and larceny. About a year ago the house of Harry Kletter was broken into and some furniture stolen. They were convicted at the January term of court and Stose was sentenced to six years and Achshah Millard to one year in the penitentiary. It is said that Achshah could not have got off with a very light sentence, but her infatuation for young Stose led her to play into the clutches of the law in the hope of lightening his sentence.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"IL TROVATORE."

Mrs. Sofia Scacchi, the greatest contralto singer of the century, is not to return to Europe without giving us an opportunity of listening to her marvelous voice. Supported by a company of famous grand opera stars, she will positively appear in the opera house tonight. It goes without saying that this will be the most important musical entertainment ever given in this city. A splendid program has been arranged, one that will surely please the taste of all classes of music lovers. Following a grand operatic concert, the entire fourth act of Verdi's melodious opera, "Il Trovatore" will be presented in costume with scenery, paraphernalia, etc., and Mme. Scacchi as Azucena, her most famous role. Scacchi's associates include Mlle. Helene Noldi, the famous American prima donna soprano; Signor Alberti, the renowned baritone; Signor Canzio, tenor; and Mr. Walter A. Pick, the well-known musical director.

GREAT NEW YORK VAUDEVILLE.

A show of merit will always win, and this is the secret of the success of the "Greater New York Vaudeville." In the last it is all the rage, and to bid in Vaudeville attraction means a full house, where drama, farce comedy or any other line of theatricals have failed to do any business at all to speak of. The "Greater New York Vaudeville" company is a representative of the all-specialty show. Every performer in the cast is an artistic gem in their respective lines. Such artists as Acker and Wesley, the "rap-time duo."

IS IT CURABLE?

A Question Often Asked by Those Afflicted With Piles.

Is a strained joint curable? Is a local inflammation curable? Of course, if properly treated, So is Piles.

People often become afflicted with piles and ask some old "doctor" who has a few ways peddled in the wrong treatment and naturally discourages them by telling them that their case is hopeless.

They in turn discourage others, and thus a disease that can in every case be cured by careful and skillful handling is allowed to sap the energy of thousands who might free themselves of the trouble in a few days.

Pyramid Pile Cure will cure the most aggravated case of hemorrhoids in an astonishingly short time. It relieves the congested parts, reduces the tumors instantly, no matter how large, allays the inflammation and stops the itching or burning at once.

Thousands who have resorted to expensive surgical operations have been cured by Pyramid Pile Cure. In a number of instances persons who had spent months in a hospital under a specialist.

It is a remedy that none need fear to apply even to the most aggravated, swollen and inflamed hemorrhoidal tumors.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you give their systems. GRAIN-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1/4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

deserve special mention. Mr. Acker is fine in his ballads, comic songs and dances, and Miss Wesley in her rapid-fire renditions on the piano, is superb. Felix McNeil is another very strong feature. In ballad singing he is positively without a peer. He is the author of "Sweet Little Maz," and never fails to captivate his audiences wherever he goes when he sings it. The Haywood sketch artists are also very fine. Their work is sure to receive an ovation. Last but not least is the great virtuoso. We have had picture machines, but we have had nothing in moving pictures to compare with this one. The pictures are up to date, including the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, hurdle race, the realistic battle of Manila, which lasts for twenty minutes, showing the minutest detail of the battle, from the climbing of a sailor up the rope ladders to the bursting of the great bomb shells and torpedoes.

"BEACH & BOWERS."

Nearly a thousand people witnessed the performance of the above-named troupe last evening and everyone seemed to go away pleased. Certainly with a popular entertainment popular prize tell. The songs, dancing and grand finale of the first part were all excellent and were heartily received and many of them encored. The second part contained quite a number of specialties which were immensely taking. The equilibrium and hand-balancing was immense, while the march of the Kaskovian Knights was fine. Frank Hammond, monologue comedian, Bowers and Stuart, Beach and Freeman, the funny acrobats, were very mirth provoking. The musical wonders were remarkable, and the quartet was loudly encored. The honors of the evening were liberally shared by the performing dogs, which were certainly astonishing. A whole show in themselves. The McGinty, the clown dog, was very trained, is a marvel. The show is a good one—Jacksonville Daily Journal.

"BEACH & BOWERS" will be at the Crawford Grand on Monday, January 30.

"TOWN TOPICS."

The only reason that the farce-comedy "Town Topics" has been written this season was to bring it up to date. Those who saw it last year say that they cannot conceive how it could be made any funnier, more musical, or more attractive in any way. There is reason in this argument. But, it must be remembered that there are always new events startling the world, to which reference can be made in a play of the kind. The cleverness that clever people in Europe as well as America are continually inventing new sayings, new dramatic situations, and new quips and cracks of humor that everyone wants to enjoy. In the rewritten "Town Topics" will be found the latest Paris novelties in comedy, music and dancing, to say nothing of some of the most daintily beautiful costumes that the mind of man has ever conceived. Messrs. World, Gamelle and Mack, the managers, who also play the three principal comedy parts, say that "Town Topics" is full of surprises, and that every surprise is a pleasing one. As for the girls in the company—well, just wait till you see them.

COON HOLLOW ATTRACTION.

The patrons of the Crawford Grand were accorded a refreshing treat last night in the presentation of "The Romance of Coon Hollow." The entire performance was good and the audience seemed delighted and were much in their applause. "The Romance of Coon Hollow" has a good plot and is full of interesting and strong situations. It is quite a generic production, the company using their own special scenery throughout. The setting of the first act, Coon Hollow and the steamship and cotton press settings are admirable. The music is good, and the dancing is fine. The company is well trained and the production is the best of the kind that has been here for years.

WILL DECIDE TODAY

Attorneys for Shea Arguing for Continuance.

AFFIDAVITS ARE REQUIRED

Defense Claim Important Witnesses are Not Here.

Decisive action will be taken in the Paddy Shea case this morning, regarding the motion for a continuance, which has been hanging fire this week. The attorneys argued the motion at some length yesterday morning and Judge Dale took the matter under advisement and will render his decision this morning.

George Adams and R. R. Vermillion, attorneys for the defense, contend that their client is not ready for trial, owing to the absence of two important witnesses. Ex-Policeman Gamble and Anna Hanson are the witnesses referred to by the defense. In yesterday's proceedings a doctor's certificate showing the condition of Officer Gamble, who is said to be lying on his back in bed at a hotel in Enid, O. T., was offered in evidence, but was not considered of sufficient weight with the judge, and he stated that he would require an affidavit from the physician covering the illness of Gamble. Shea's attorneys wired instructions to have the affidavit sent here at once, and it is expected that the document will reach here in time to be presented to the court this morning, and no doubt will be given some consideration by the judge in the granting of the desired continuance.

The affidavit of Anna Whaley was used to show that the Hanson girl could be secured by proper effort on the part of the defendant.

A great deal of local interest is centered in the case, and it is thought that Judge Dale will grant the continuance in order to give Paddy Shea a chance for a fair and impartial trial.

CASE GIVEN TO GRAND JURY

Fred Sowers Filed Information—Says Son Was Murdered.

The Jackson county grand jury meets next April it will begin the investigation of what may be one of the most remarkable cases in the history of the state. The machinery of the law has been put in motion to determine whether or not Charles A. Sowers, 25 years of age and a cripple, was murdered and his body laid on the tracks of the Memphis road to hide the crime.

Frederick A. Sowers, father of the dead boy, yesterday filed information with prosecuting Attorney Reed to substantiate his charges that his son had been murdered and the case was given to the grand jury, then in session. Owing to the fact that an immense mass of evidence had been secured and it would take at least a week to examine all the witnesses and decide whether or not to return an indictment, the case was left over for the next grand jury to act on.

The official records in relation to the death of Charles Sowers show that on the morning of Thursday, October 6, 1898, his dead body was found lying on the tracks of the Memphis road, just south of the viaduct and near a culvert. It was badly mangled and showed evidence of having been run over by a train. An inquest was held by the coroner of Wyandotte county and a verdict of death from unknown causes returned.

Frederick Sowers, the boy's father was notified at Wichita, where the body was sent together with a lot of letters and papers taken from it. For some reason Mr. Sowers was inclined to suspect that possibly his son had met with foul play and when the box containing these letters and papers were received by him, he turned it over to two Wichita detectives, Messrs. Sutton and Wood. The letters were blood stained and after examining them Mr. Sowers said they told him it was very evident the blood had been sprinkled on it as it plainly showed it could not have soaked through the clothes. With this clue to start with, Mr. Sowers began an investigation that has lasted for months and ended when he presented the information he had gained to the prosecuting attorney.

Charles Sowers came to Kansas City from Wichita September 23, 1897, and went to reside with his grandmother at 1224 Charlotte street; the object of his coming, so his father states, was to be a companion for his grandmother, whose husband had recently died. His uncle, Charles Schattner, secured him a position in the law office of E. W. Griffin in the city of St. Louis, where he worked up to a couple of days before his death. A few days before that occurred he expressed the desire to go back to Wichita, and his uncle promised to buy his ticket for him Monday, October 3, but wanted him to stay until after the priests of Pallas' parade. Tuesday night, he agreed, but did not go down town that night, as his heart had been troubling him the night before, and he was afraid the excitement might renew the trouble. Mr. Schattner came home about midnight Tuesday and found the boy asleep in bed, the last time he was seen until his body was found on the track.

When the hired girl got up in the morning

ing she found the rear door unlocked and the gate in a high fence at the rear of the premises also unlocked and open. The boy was missing from his room and had left nothing to indicate where he had gone.

"In the first place," said Mr. Sowers, yesterday, "I want to say I am perfectly satisfied now that my son was murdered. How do I know? From the evidence I have secured through detectives and which, although largely of a circumstantial character, is sufficient to warrant me in believing as I do. My son left Wichita to come to Kansas City because his grandmother wanted him to bow tie her. He took a position here at smaller wages than he had been getting at home, but was willing to do that, as he was a very affectionate boy and thought a great deal of his grandmother. After he had been here a year he wanted to go back home to visit me, and he wrote me the week he was killed that he expected to start some time that week. The next I heard about him was a telegram sent me by a man named Blanton, who said my boy's body had been found on the tracks of the Memphis road and wanted to know what should be done with it. In the meantime I had received a telegram from his uncle, Charles Schattner, to the effect that Charles had disappeared from his house some time Wednesday morning and that he did not know what had become of him.

"Later he wrote me a letter, containing many expressions of grief over Charles's death, and telling what a kind, affectionate boy he was. I immediately wrote back to him the body and all my boy's effects sent to me, and when the box of letters that had been taken from the corpse arrived, I turned them over to a couple of detectives, Messrs. Sutton and Wood, to examine. I told them the letters had been taken from the body, and asked them what they thought of the blood stains. After a careful examination, one of them said: 'I do not think a corpse could sprinkle blood on letters, and then put the letters back in his pocket.' Now, as to the circumstances of his disappearance, I have learned that he was very anxious to come home and see me, and that he wanted to go Monday, but had no money. His uncle promised him a check, but he persuaded him to wait until Wednesday, so he could see the parade. Monday night he went to his uncle's room, appearing to be very frightened. His heart was fluttering at a rapid rate, and he asked to have a mustard plaster put on it. The next night he still felt ill, and stayed at home with his grandmother. At 10 o'clock he went to bed, and that was the last seen of him alive. The next morning the kitchen door was found unlocked, and the back gate open. Why he should go out that way I do not understand, as he had a key to the front door, and it would have been much easier to have gotten out that way. He disappeared some time Wednesday morning, but his body was not found until Thursday morning. The question now is, where was he all day Wednesday and Wednesday night?

"When found, the body was badly mangled, and papers and envelopes that are supposed to have been in his pockets were strewn along the track. There was a lot of these papers, and what was queer about this part of it is that he never carried any papers in his coat pockets, as he was deformed, something of which he was very sensitive, and the carrying of papers made his coat stick out so as to accentuate this deformity. At the men who picked up the body found papers dated as far back as 1892, papers that he always kept in his trunk. Most of these letters showed his address to be 1224 Charlotte street, yet here another queer thing occurs. Instead of notice being sent there, a distance of eight miles, a notice of the finding of the body was sent me by Mr. Blanton, who found it, at Wichita.

"Now here is some of the evidence I have gotten to prove that he was murdered: Among those who first saw the body was a lot of section hands and gardeners whose places were near by. All remarked on the peculiar fact that, although the body was torn to pieces, there was no blood on the tracks. The blood on the clothes was stiff and dry, so dry that it cracked and broke when the clothes were bent. That indicated that the blood had been on the clothes for at least twenty-four hours. His new straw hat lay at the side of the track and was uninjured. Inside the hat was a big clot of dried blood. The section boss said there was not enough blood on the track to account for the killing of a rabbit. Sixteen firemen and engineers on the Memphis road have testified under oath that they had been ordered to keep a careful lookout for people walking along the track from Wednesday night until Thursday morning, and it was the day after the parade, and the officers of the road expected there would be a number of people coming along the track from the city. Under oath they testified that they had seen no one, dead or alive. In my opinion my son was killed in Kansas City, his body hid until early Thursday morning and then hauled out to where it was found and thrown under the wheels of the cars. The men who did it being careful not to place it on the track for the engineer or fireman would see it and the fact exposed that the body was dead before the train struck him. Two physicians have testified that at the inquest they examined the corpse after it had been washed and found on his head four drops of blood, which as though made by some sharp beveled instrument, cuts that could not possibly have been made by any part of a train. The undertaker who prepared the body for burial has testified the same.

"Marshal Powers and Deputy Marshal Likofort, of Wyandotte county, have worked up most of the evidence and have worked hard and faithfully on it. They have established the fact that, although the boy left home Wednesday morning and his body was not found until Thursday morning, not a soul saw him at any place. Another piece of evidence that will not be an important part in the case is that the blood on the blood stained envelopes were taken from his pockets. The blood found on his clothes had not soaked through the clothes deep enough to reach anything in the pockets. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from unknown causes, but the coroner and jury found on the track to hide a crime. The theory of a suicide has been advanced by some people, but why he should commit suicide no one pretends to know. Is a diary he kept he spoke of being contented and happy and that he hoped to live for many years. His future prospects were bright, as he was to have inherited an eighth interest in the Schattner estate, according to the terms of his grandfather's will, an estate valued at nearly $250,000.

Prosecuting Attorney Reed, when asked if the grand jury had examined any witnesses in the case, said it would be impossible for him to answer the question, as he was under oath to reveal nothing that took place in the jury room.

"I will say this, however," he said, "Mr. Sowers came to me a couple of weeks before I took charge of the prosecution's office and told me the story. He did not at that time nor has he up to the present time produced evidence that would warrant me in connecting anyone with the supposed crime or warrant me in believing that a crime had been committed."

Many Were Mysterious—What the Principal Cause Has Been.

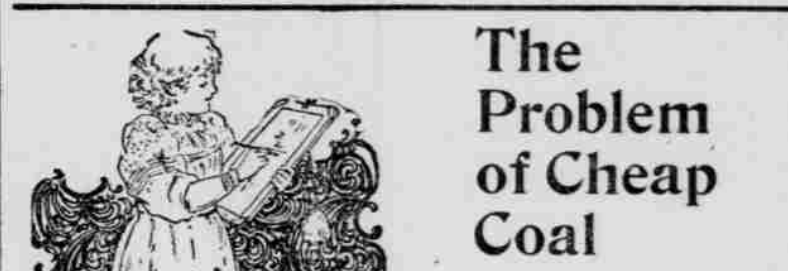

known to close up if the kidneys were in a healthful condition, because all the clogging material which goes into the lungs would be thrown out of the system by another channel, viz.: through the kidneys. You perhaps have never thought of this, but it is true.

Thousands of others are said to have died of heart disease or heart failure. Why does the heart fail? Because it gets worn out in trying to pump the blood through the system, the work is too great. But why does the blood circulate so poorly? Because it is loaded with poisons. It is the duty of the kidneys to expel these poisons, but because they are so weakened they cannot expel them. Is this not clear? Is it not a simple reason? Unfortunately, it is true.

There has never been known but one discovery which acts directly upon the kidneys and which will keep them in perfect condition. That discovery known to chemists, scientists, physicians and the world generally is Warner's Safe Cure. And it is known to the world quite as generally as is Bright's disease, which it cures. It has special properties which have special effect upon the kidneys. It has proven this in numberless cases and it is just as effectual today as it has ever been in the past.

If the kidneys were healthy and strong, there would be comparatively little pneumonia or heart failure, but the kidneys, these quiet little organs at the lower portion of the body, like the heart, are working day and night and easily get out of order, and even when they rebel they do not make any demonstration over it. They seldom give pain; they work along and do the best they can. But they none the less undermine the life and cause disease and often death.

Look therefore, to your kidneys and guard them if you would guard your life. You can't afford to neglect these most important organs of the body. You ought to aid them, to assist them constantly. They are grateful for any help and they respond readily.

Is the manner in which one of our eminent eye specialists describes astigmatism, or unequal sight—so common among defective eyes of this day. This word astigmatism is derived from the Latin one of "astigya," which means "without a point."
